Message Series for April: The Beautiful Trade

The book of Mark is the shortest of the four Gospels, but it's packed with one central message—that Jesus wants us to trade up. He wants us to trade what we know, what we think and how we see others for something better. It's a beautiful trade, because not only do we exchange something for something different, we exchange our lives and our perspectives for something better. It's a message that's at the heart of the Easter story, but it's shown through Jesus' interactions long before the crucifixion and resurrection.

Here's a breakdown of the weekly series:

Session One: Exchange

Bottom Line: Jesus is not asking to be an addition to your life; He is asking to be your life.

Session Two: Swap

Bottom Line: The people you think don't matter, the ones you think are worthless and meaningless, are actually cherished, chosen and valued.

Session Three: Switch

Bottom Line: If you say Jesus is the Messiah, you are going to have to make a trade.
